What We Don't Change, We Choose

How complacency cost Minnesota $9 billion and counting

Ann Tepoorten currently works in public housing in Wisconsin. She previously worked in the Minnesota House of Representatives, where she gained a first-hand look at how government programs, oversight systems, and public dollars intersect.

She will take us inside what happened in Minnesota, examine some of the systemic failures that allowed it to happen, and discuss what Wisconsin can learn from Minnesota's mistakes.

750 North Hickory Farm Lane is between Hwy. 96 and College Avenue, east of Hwy. 41 and west of Lynndale Drive.
